to raise your vibration and radically enhance your life

A Complete Guide on harnessing the power of affirmations

Hey beautiful babe! My name is Kimberley Roles and I am a spiritual badass babe who one day realized that it was her passion to coach other people into living their best lives. Lives filled with nothing less than happiness, freedom, tons of love, free flowing inspiration, endless motivation, and a whole lot of money to do whatever they wanted. Lives with zero restrictions and zero limitations is my dream for every single woman (and man) living on this planet. Nothing inspires me more than someone who owns themselves. Like REALLY owns themselves and lives their truth unapologetically. To help more people achieve that level of epic amazingness. It's my mission to help babes like you adopt a mindset that will take your life to the next level.

As a once shy, timid, totally logic driven accounting nerd, I've come a long way to where I am today. Life has become a completely different ball game once I adopted a more spiritual approach to life, and started working harder on my mindset than just about anything else. Affirmations are one of my favorite tools in my spiritual toolbox when it comes to manifesting. I am SO excited to share this guide with you.

Before we begin, can I ask you for a favor? Something I think will totally help you and support you on your spiritual path as an awesome bonus. I am so happy you downloaded this guide! Request to join my Facebook group (Kimberlee Korner and Raising the Vibration) and join a beautiful community of spiritual like-minded babes just like you. It's totally FREE and I know you'll find a ton of value in here. Can't wait to see your beautiful face in there! You can find the group by typing in "Kimberlee Korner" and it should pop up in your Facebook browser! Joined the group? Perfect! Let's move on!

The What & The Why of Affirmations:

So, what exactly are affirmations? Chances are if you've downloaded this guide, you've totally heard of affirmations before. Maybe you've already taken the plunge and tried them for yourself. Since the release of the best selling movie and book, The Secret, affirmations have taken off as a spiritual tool that can be practiced daily. And quite frankly, SHOULD be practiced daily. However, you're probably someone like me who was initially confused about them. How do I use them? Is it even working? How do I create my own? Am I saying them right? All reasonable questions as a newbie! Just like meditation, affirmations are another spiritual New Age-y thing I definitely scoffed at and dismissed initially. Simply put, I just didn't understand them. I don't know about you, but standing in front of a mirror and yelling "I am fucking AWESOME" just felt plain stupid to me. And fake. And totally weird. Also, saying to myself over and over again, "I am a millionaire" when I only had $6.32 in my checking account at the time made me feel like a complete broke loser. I mean... why wouldn't it, right? Fast forward a spiritual journey of about 8 years now (on and off with it really taking off in the last year for me), I finally GET IT. You can say that I finally learned the secret, but in all reality I just tweaked the ways that I would use affirmations. There is no secret, because we already use affirmations every single day of our lives. Since the day we were born. We have just been using them unconsciously. In ways that probably harmed us rather than benefited us. Allow me to show you how as we move deeper into the guide. Affirmations are one of the best tools for manifesting more of what you want into your life, and co-creating your reality. They're a phenomenal way to influence your subconscious mind and harness its untapped power.

Basically, the dictionary defines the word affirmation as “a statement or proposition that is declared to be true.” Whatever you affirm to yourself, is basically you telling yourself your own personal truth. Whether your inner dialogue is positive or negative, your subconscious mind ultimately accepts it as truth. That's just the way it works. “I am feeling so fat today.” → TRUTH “I can't afford that. I am so broke.” → TRUTH “Today sucks. What more could go wrong? Nothing goes right for me.” → TRUTH “Wow, I'm feeling so abundant today! I am making so much money in my new business that totally supports my passion. People fucking love to pay me!” → ALSO TRUTH “I love my life. I am experiencing so many amazing things lately. I can't wait to see what other amazing things life has in store for me” → ALSO TRUTH “Whether you think you can or think you can't... you're right” -Henry Ford

These statements are all true. Whatever you believe to be true, is true. Period. End of story. It's extremely important you understand this because it's step one of realizing why intentionally practicing positive affirmations is life changing. And I really mean LIFE CHANGING. For the better. In epic proportions. I created this guide because time and time again my digital course students and coaching clients misunderstand the use of affirmations, missing out on their amazing power.

Totally understandable since I was once in their place too. I wanted to begin this guide by first explaining that everything you think and say on a daily basis is your own personal affirmation. The awareness of this alone will help you become more conscious of how much time you spend thinking positively vs negatively. My goal in this guide is to share with you how you can start reprogramming your mind to naturally affirm positive thoughts and statements without even having to force it. I have also included 111 affirmations that you can start using.

When I began to add feeling to my affirmations and really feeling as if I am already living the intention behind my affirmation, did I start to manifest what I was saying to myself. At rapid speed, too! For instance, think back to the example I shared about the time when I said to myself “I am a millionaire,” while having just six bucks and some cents to my name. The reason why this affirmation didn't work for me wasn't because it wasn't possible for me to become a millionaire through the Law of Attraction and setting the intention of wanting to be a millionaire. It was because I wasn't feeling truly abundant while saying it. I was still so focused on lack and the ABSENCE of money, that my feelings about my affirmations were completely misaligned with what I was saying. As I mention quite frequently, feeling the feelings of what you want to attract is everything. It's the key that will unlock all of its power. That is how you impress the subconscious mind and make a huge impact on what you're trying to manifest. Feeling “as if” as most self help books phrase it, truly is the number one secret behind affirmations. It's one thing to say “I am a huge success” and it's a complete different ball game to actually feel like you are a success while saying it. One more important thing I feel like I need to mention to you is that the subconscious mind (the part of your brain responsible for the reality you see before you) doesn't know the difference between what's actually real and what's fake. The subconscious mind can be easily tricked this way through your feelings. It doesn't know if you're actually a millionaire, but feeling like one is the fastest way to become one. The Universe will begin to respond to the vibrational frequency of your subconscious mind, not what is already part of your reality. If you truly feel like a millionaire, the Universe will guide you into becoming one. Coincidences will occur. Business ideas will flood into your mind. The perfect business partners will appear. All of a sudden you “coincidentally” meet a web designer who wants to build your website for you for free. Shit just starts happen. The Universe conspires to make whatever you are affirming to yourself on a daily basis come alive into your reality. Make sense?

Here is a list (because I am a huge fan of lists!) of many more ways you can make affirmations more effective:

1. Record a few affirmations on the voice recorder app on your phone. Using an editor of some sort, loop the audio so that it plays over and over and over again for about 20-30 minutes. Feel free to add some music that relaxes you and makes you feel insanely happy in the background. Fall asleep to these affirmations. Your subconscious mind is most receptive as you fall asleep every single night. Having this be the last thing you listen to before you fall into a deep slumber is some powerful shit.
2. Chant your affirmations in the middle of a deep meditation. I add affirmations into all the custom meditations I create for my clients. They work incredibly in the middle of a super relaxed state of mind.
3. Say them to yourself with complete conviction out loud while you're driving. Literally, out loud. Like, yelling! I do this all the time, and I apologize to those who have seen me drive before. I'm sure I look a little crazy when I get into them.
4. Pick 3 or 4 affirmations and write them out 10 times each in a journal in your own handwriting (NOT in your phone or computer). Your subconscious mind is more likely to pick up what you physically write down with a pen and paper than what you type out using an electronic device. There is magic in your own handwriting. This goes for writing out your goals too, FYI.
5. Write them down on post-it notes or index cards and place them everywhere. I mean everywhere. By your bed, in your bathroom, on the refrigerator, in your closet, etc. Just seeing them alone on a daily basis is a powerful way to remind yourself of them.
6. Set affirmations in the reminders app of your phone so that they pop up at certain locations (like driving up to your home, work, the store, Starbucks, etc) or at certain times. My favorite times for them to pop up are first thing in the morning when my alarm rings. That way I make sure that I start my day off with the right intentions.

When It Feels Like It Isn't Working Sometimes (okay, most of the time if we're being really honest here) all of this may feel like it isn't working. This is completely normal and expected-- especially for newbies. The Universe/God/your Higher Power (whatever resonates with you) likes to test our faith and our trust before it delivers our intentions/affirmations. Sometimes things in our life need to be cleared away and removed before we receive exactly what we want. For example, some women find that as soon as they start practicing their money affirmations, things begin to go haywire. Not always, but it's common. Their car breaks down, a pipe bursts at in their home, their husband starts bringing up their “budget” more than ever, and maybe they’ll lose their favorite diamond earrings all of a sudden. Chaos tends to ensue right before we get what we want. It’s the Universe’s way of asking you to be really clear about what you want by showing you what you don’t want. It’s a way of being shown that you are not as clear as you need to be. Clarity is everything when it comes to manifesting. When things seem to be falling apart, they’re actually falling into place. Our goal as spiritual beings is to always trust that everything happens for a for a purpose and for our ultimate highest good. Everything is happening for a reason, and it will all make sense in the end. We are co-creators of our realities, not sole creators. We work with a higher power that loves us unconditionally and delivers what we want in the most divine timing. A timing that is perfect for us and our personal growth. It’s our job to ask for what we want, but it’s not our job to control the timing that it happens in, or the way that it happens. Dropping the how is something I talk a lot about in my Money Babe Course. The “how” is God’s job. Not yours. All you need to do is to be clear with what you want, and trust that it’s on its way to you right now. You were not... I repeat... you were NOT put on this planet to suffer. You were not put on this planet to have dreams, goals, and desires just to simply have them and think about them for no reason. That’s just pure torture that the Universe doesn’t want to put you through. I wholeheartedly believe, as it’s been proven to me time and time again in mine and my clients’ experiences, that your desires were put in your heart because you were meant to manifest them. You got that? You deserve everything you want. You are already worthy of it. Whether you desire to live in a million dollar house in Beverly Hills, or you desire to live in a hut on a secluded island, you were meant to follow those desires. Believe that anything is possible for you, and the Universe will gladly give you anything that you want. When you really trust that the intentions you set by practicing your daily affirmations are truth and nothing but the truth, you will receive them. It’s not just a nice thought, it’s fucking law. I can’t stress this enough. Just like you don’t question whether or not the Law of Gravity is real, there is no need to question whether or not the Law of Attraction works. However, the magic it brings into your life is in direct proportion of how much belief you have about it working for you. Your affirmations should be affirmed, not just simply said. Again, go back to your feelings. Really feel your affirmations as you say them, and trust that they are the truth. Your subconscious mind will pick up on it and it will lead to it manifesting into your reality in the timing that is appropriate for your highest good. Things come to you when you’re ready for them. The reality you see around you right now is based upon what you believe to be true about your life. Start believing in more empowering statements, and your life will radically change. You can trust me on this.

Repeat after me right now: “Everything always happens for my highest good in divine timing.” Yep, feel free to use that affirmation too. "i believe you can speak things into existence." -jay z

Creating Your Own Affirmations

The 111 affirmations that I provided for you in this guide are an excellent starting point. As time goes on and as life unfolds, you may find that you want affirmations that are more customized to you and your personal life path. Affirmations are super easy to create as they are mostly just positive statements tailored to your goals. However, there are a few tips I want to share so that you avoid making common mistakes-- causing you to manifest the opposite of what you actually want.

Creating your own affirmations 101:

1. Pick an area of your life which you would like to see a change in (relationships, marriage, finances, career, health and fitness, etc)
2. Figure out your end goal. What would you like to happen in this area of your life? Be very specific. The Universe loves specificity and clarity. Start with: “ I want ____ and ____.”

3. Now rewrite the statement as if whatever it is you want has already happened or already exists. Writing affirmations for the future do not work, because you are affirming to the Universe that you do not yet have this thing or experience, manifesting more of NOT having it. Notice how all of my 111 affirmations are written as if they have already happened or already exist. Example: Good affirmation: I am a 6 figure earning personal trainer and my clients love me. Bad affirmation: I will be a 6 figure earning personal trainer and my clients will love me. See the difference? Use phrases like "I am, I have" and make sure all verbs are in the present or past tense too. Example: I want to earn $2k a week in my tshirt business VS I am earning $2k a week in my tshirt business, or I have earned $2k a week in my tshirt business. The latter two are way better than the first, because they show the mind that they have already happened or are happening.
4. Make sure there are no contradictories in your affirmations and no negative language. Make sure that everything you say is exactly what you want to manifest. You're speaking everything into its literal existence. Your subconscious mind doesn't understand the words "no, not, or never." This is SUPER important because I see a lot of my students and clients come up with affirmations like "I don't want ____" as well as "I want ___ so that I never ____." Because your subconscious mind doesn't pick up on the not's and never's, it will manifest whatever you put after those phrases anyway. Be super careful with this. Notice how none of my 111 affirmations have those phrases in them.
5. If you ever have a hard time coming up with your own affirmations, or want to check and see if they're great for your goals, feel free to post them into the Facebook group! That's what the group is for! I would love to see your affirmations in there.

The 21 Day Affirmation Challenge

Now that you know all the basics of affirmations, and hopefully have already started to utilize them, I would love to personally challenge you as your virtual life coach. Are you up for the 21 Day Affirmation Challenge?

I'm about 1000% sure you've heard the overused popular phrase that it takes 21 days to form a habit. So, why not challenge yourself to end this guide with a bang? I'd love to see your affirmation challenge journey in the Facebook group too. I'd love to see your posts about how affirmations are changing your reality over the next 21 days. Ready to begin?

The challenge

1. Choose 3-5 affirmations that resonate most with what you need at this time in your life. Feel free to use this time to create your own too!
2. These 3-5 affirmations are going to become your number one focus over the next 21 days. You are going to live and breathe these statements as your subconscious mind starts to take them in as your truth.
3. Every morning say them out loud 10 times each while feeling the feelings behind the affirmations. Say them with conviction. Feel free to YELL them. One of the life coaches I hired earlier this year literally made me yell mine out over and over again, and our session started at 7am that morning! What a way to wake up.
4. For the purpose of this challenge, I want you to go out and buy a pretty notebook or journal to keep at your bedside. Every evening before bed, I want you to write each affirmation over and over again. I recommend 10 times each, but I have certainly done sessions where I wrote down each one over 50 times. Do what feels good to you. The key is make it enjoyable and not a chore. The second these practices feel like a chore, they stop working.

5. Fall asleep in the evening thinking about what it would feel like if your affirmations were already true. I use the last 5 minutes before I fall asleep every night to visualize what it is that I am affirming to myself on a daily basis.

I want you to also journal out or post in the Facebook group the changes that are occurring in your life. Are you noticing shifts? Are they energetic or physical? Are they slight or extreme? Are your manifestations becoming easier or are you noticing where you may be blocked? Is temporary chaos ensuing testing your initial trust in the Universe? Or are things naturally manifesting in the easiest way possible? Make note of all of this. Your awareness is step one on your spiritual path. Become a gentle observer of your present reality. Awareness is the first step to lasting change. Believe each affirmation as your ultimate truth, and your life will radically change in as little as 21 days. I've proven it to myself time and time again to the point where I'm able to manifest what I'm affirming within DAYS as opposed to weeks or months in the past. I'm working on hours vs days now ;). It's truly become one of the most effective tools in my manifesting toolbox and I'm so passionate about paying it forward to women like you.
